PACIFIC RISK MANAGEMENT 'OHANA 2025 - BUILDING COALITIONS AND LOCAL SOLUTIONS FOR RESILIENCE

Recent disasters like the wildfires in Hawai'i and Typhoon Mawar in the Marianas demonstrate how climate change and extreme weather events create increasing challenges to the resiliency of Pacific Islands. Addressing not only acute disasters but also chronic hazards like erosion and invasive species requires collaboration among diverse Pacific Island perspectives through initiatives like PRiMO. By fostering coalitions and creating localized solutions, we can effectively mobilize resources and build resilience to combat these pressing environmental and socio-economic issues.
